Warren, Ohio, October 19th, 1895.

Dear Friend:

Presuming you are going to continue your membership in the National-American Woman Suffrage Association, I write to notify you that this is the time of year you usually contribute.

You have been called upon by special committees this year and in past years as well, yet you have felt equal to contributing your dollar or more for the general treasury, and we hope you can do so for 1896.

Those of us who are giving all our time without compensation, feel that if all sympathizers knew how much we need money, it would be forthcoming.

This has been the most successful year we have known. The South has been busy organizing. Local and state organizations have been brought into existence in the North and Far West, and every organized state in the Union has become auxiliary to the mother society. It really seems that at last we are nearing the end of our warfare; that only a few more battles will make us free. Money is the ammunition we need.
