People in Societies
A. Compare practices and products of North American cultural groups:
1. Compare the cultural practices and products of diverse groups in North American including:
   a. Artistic expressions;
   b. Religion;
   c. Language;
   d. Food;
   e. Clothing;
   f. Shelter.

Social Studies Skills & Methods:
A. Obtain information from a variety of primary and secondary sources using the component parts of the source:
3. Differentiate between primary and secondary sources.

Enrichment Activity:
- Students will create a "Back to the Future" travel guide. Students (individual or in groups or pairs) will chose a decade and create a travel guide brochure for going back in time. Students will present these to the class.
Additional Instruction:

- Have students create a compare and contrast chart in which the students will pick two of the decades at least thirty years apart and compare and contrast life in America concerning religion, language, food, shelter, clothing, artistic expressions.

- Use the "NASA for Kids" site - http://kids.msfc.nasa.gov/Pioneers/ site to explore becoming an astronaut and what it takes to live in space.

- Use the "I Can Touch the Stars" site - http://www.econedlink.org/lessons/em392/icantouchthestars.doc page to explore further two special astronauts: Dr. Sally Ride and Senator John Glenn.

- Use the Astronauts in Outer Space site - http://www.worldalmanacforkids.com/explore/inspace to create a timeline of space flight that will include six of the most important events in space flight.

Additional Instruction:

- WHAT WOULD YOU WORK HARD FOR: Young children should begin to learn about the concept of value and why some items are considered more valuable than others. These concepts relate to a geographical understanding of natural resources and the reasons why people work very hard to extract resources, such as during the California gold rush - http://www.nationalgeographic.com/xpeditions/activities/16/questgold.html. This lesson has students go through a simulation to learn about value, abundance, and scarcity and asks them to consider the things that they would be willing to work very hard for.

- Write an explanation about why Chile exports fruits and vegetables to the United States. Use these words: specialize, exports, and imports in the explanation. You should list the fruits and vegetables that are exported to the United States from Chile, tell how the fruits and vegetables get to the United States, and tell why the geography and climate of Chile make it a perfect place to grow those fruits and vegetables.
To find the information for your explanation go to “Go on a Chilean Fruit Adventure” - http://www.dole5aday.com/ReferenceCenter/Encyclopedia/ChileanFruits/index.jsp?topmenu=1. If you click on the words 'Growing Regions' under the 'Background' section you will find out about the geography and climate of Chile.

Additional Instruction:

- Unions and Alliances: Upper elementary school students should be able to identify and describe different territorial units, including regional and international alliances - http://www.nationalgeographic.com/xpeditions/activities/13/eurunion.html between countries. This lesson has students focus on the United Nations, learning about this organization's functions and purposes and the broad geographical range of its members. It then asks students to apply the concepts behind the UN's mission to their own school, creating an alliance of students or school groups.

- Create a comic strip for Free Enterprise Publishers showing the steps an ambitious young American would take to start and run a new business. Be sure to include a panel showing how the "hero" would respond to competition from other businesses.

Additional Instruction:

- On the board write "Goods are things that people buy and sell." Ask students to suggest examples of goods. Record students' responses on the board.
Have students work in small groups. Tell them to identify the kinds of stores/establishments in which they would find these goods listed on the board.

- Ask students who decides what goods and stores are made?
- Explain to students the three basic economic questions: what to produce, how to produce, and who to produce for.

Core Activity

Using economic reasoning skills, students will be able to compare different allocation methods for goods and services. Students will experience each of the allocation methods listed in the indicator. They will learn why allocation methods are needed when there are scarce goods or services. Given a scenario, students will list options, consider advantages and disadvantages, and choose and implement an allocation method.

Enrichment Activity:

- Take pictures of signs in the community or cut out newspaper ads that display one or more of the allocation methods. For example: "While Supplies Last" at a local fast food restaurant is an example of first-come-first-served.
• Students may survey the class on the best “indoor game” for rainy days. Set up a tournament using the game. Finally, use different allocation methods each day to determine who will get to play the game.

Additional Instruction:

• Have students work in small teams to provide support and give them more opportunities and time to respond.
• Create a rap song with the allocation methods to help someone remember them.
• Create a poem of one or more of the allocation methods.
• Create pantomimes demonstrating the allocation methods and allow other students the chance to guess the method being shown.

- Ask students to survey their neighborhoods for stories about family names. Organize this information for a booklet describing surnames that originated from occupations, from locations, from re-spellings of foreign names, etc.
On the computer or by hand, design business stationery or small business cards for:
- Local businesses
- Family members
- School faculty/staff
- Sports teams
- Authors of favorite books

Additional Instruction:

You have been asked to develop a restaurant for a new park in Japan. Create a menu, complete with the name of the restaurant and some dishes that you think would be popular with Japanese and Asian park visitors as well as with European and American visitors.

Additional Instruction:

- Create a new game and explain why it would be popular in another country

Enrichment Activity:
- Report orally on an invention by an African American
- Students can look through American history textbooks to see whether or not the person they profiled is included. If not, they can write letters to the editors arguing for the inclusion of the African Americans they chose to research.
- Students can do research on one of the inventions or research projects mentioned in the article and write essays or create oral presentations that explain the invention/research.

Additional Instruction:
- Students can create index cards with the name of an African American inventor, scientist, researcher, activist, entertainer, etc., on one side and this person's contributions or creations on the other side. Allow students time to share their information with each other. Then collect the cards, divide the students into teams, and use the cards to quiz them on names and contributions to society.
- Students can write essays about ways in which inventions of prominent African Americans have affected their everyday lives

- Have an immigrant speak to the class. Afterward the students can do a study on the immigrant’s country.
Or invite a representative of the local immigration department to talk about what a person has to do to become an American citizen; the speaker also might touch on other challenges new immigrants face. Have students develop questions beforehand, based on their newspaper reading.

Additional Instruction:

- This lesson will use photographs to visually describe the transition from Old World to New World experienced by immigrants to the United States. Students will gain an understanding of the new life of immigrants in this country, and will learn how the medium of photography can record and recount history. They will also gain historical perspective by comparing and contrasting images of the past and the present. ### Core Activity

This lesson teaches students about cultural practices and products of North American cultural groups. Students are guided to obtain information from primary and secondary sources. This lesson may also be used when studying cultural groups of a particular North American region such as Canada (e.g., French Canadians or Inuits) or Mexico (e.g., Huichols, Yucatan Maya, Zapotecs).

Interdisciplinary Connections

Language Arts

Differentiated Learning

Enrichment Activity:

- Extend the lesson to include multiple forms of artistic expression in the areas of music, dance and visual arts.

- Extend the lesson to include traditional celebrations that represent different North American cultural groups. This can be an effective means of integrating several of the indicator subparts into a comprehensive study of cultural practices and products.
• Have a cultural group organization send guest speakers to the classroom to inform students about their cultural group’s practices and products.

Additional Instruction:
• Pair students to select pictures and analyze cultural practices and products.
• Use graphic organizers for students to categorize information from pictures.
• Allow students to participate in the “hands-on” nature of the project according to their abilities.
• Challenge students to pursue research into their own genealogy and cultural heritage and present information in a multimedia format.

Enrichment Activity:

- Read Watch the Stars Come Out, by Riki Levinson. This story describes an immigrant's journey by boat to America. Ask the children to describe the reasons people might take such a long journey. Some of the children may be recent immigrants or the sons/daughters of recent immigrants. If it is appropriate, ask these children to describe the reasons for their immigration to America. All of these reasons should be listed for future reference.

- Read sections of Ellis Island: New Hope in a New Land, by William Jay Jacobs. This is a historical account of Ellis Island and includes specific information about a variety of immigrants who landed there in 1907. Additional reasons for immigration may be listed at this time. Another book about Ellis Island is If Your Name Was Changed at Ellis Island, by Ellen Levin.

- A very different story about the immigrant experience is found in Grandfather's Journey, by Allen Say. This book relates both the happy and sad experiences of an immigrant from Japan.
Additional Instruction:

- Discuss with the students why people say, "This is a land of opportunity", and what makes people want to try to come live here. How could it be better than their old life?
