February 19, 2018 - From the President's Desk

Dear Campus Community,

I am pleased to announce that Wright State University has formed a search committee to lead our national search for the university's next provost. Our goal is to complete the search process to allow the next provost to join Wright State on July 1.

The committee will be chaired by Travis Doom, Faculty Senate president, and Stephanie Green, senior vice president at Fifth Third Bank and a member of the Wright State Board of Trustees.

Committee members are:

Kimberly Ferguson-Scott, interim associate vice president of student affairs Ellen Reinsch Friese, interim vice president for research Michael Griest, director of student enrollment services Stephen Jacquemin, associate professor in the Lake Campus science and mathematics program Joseph Keferl, dean of the College of Education and Human Services Holley Mapel, vice president of Student Government Shari Mickey-Boggs, associate vice president and chief human resources officer Brenda Roman, associate dean for medical education Shu Schiller, chair of information systems and supply chain management Todd Stewart, director and chancellor of the Air Force Institute of Technology Lisa Wellinghoff, senior lecturer of mathematics and statistics Jonathan Winkler, chair of history Committee members will help convey our campus needs for a new leader, narrow the candidate pool, and help the right candidate understand why Wright State is the place for their future.

Finalists for the provost position will be invited to campus for interviews before the end of the spring semester, and opportunities will be provided for the campus community to give feedback on these candidates.

The university has contracted with Greenwood Asher, an executive search firm with extensive experience in higher education, to assist with the search, including recruiting candidates for the provost position. Representatives of the firm will work closely with our search committee and will be on campus Friday, February 23, to learn more about Wright State and our needs for our next provost.

The committee and Greenwood Asher will host a forum on the search on February 23 from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. in the Student Union Apollo Room.

During the forum, faculty and staff can provide input to Greenwood Asher about what attributes and characteristics they think our next provost should possess.

The forum will be streamed live at wright.edu/streaming. Members of the Lake Campus community can also watch the forum live in 229 Dwyer Hall.

You can also submit nominations for the provost position and stay up to date on our search at wright.edu/provost-search.

I believe candidates for our chief academic officer position will see this as an exciting time to join us. We are at the beginning stages of our strategic planning process that will guide Wright State University by creating a vision and focus that directly aligns resources with our values, our strengths, and the strategy we build around them. We also have a college re-alignment activity progressing that demonstrates our desire for change to meet the demands of a new workforce.

Warmest regards,

Cheryl B. Schrader, Ph.D. President
