IV. Report of the Senate Executive Committee

A. The Executive Committee has charged the Athletics Council to add a budget committee to their subcommittee structure and to provide a report at the February Senate meeting.

B. The Executive Committee has noticed a trend where proposals for new academic proposals only contain a list of courses and not all of the required information. All program proposals that do not include the required information will be rejected by the Executive Committee.

C. Starting in January, student employees hired by Faculty Vice President Loranger will produce college-specific Senate newsletters to be distributed to faculty within one week of each Senate meeting.

D. Dr. Rizki briefed the Senate on the MDA Resolution, currently listed under New Business, and addressed concerns regarding the tradeoffs between the concepts of ‘revenue growth’ & ‘quality’, issues with centralized support services versus in-house support services, and the timeline for implementation of the MDA model. Dr. Rizki then gave the floor to Mr. Ryan Fendley to answer questions:

Senator Davis noted that after the November MDA presentation she inquired if licensure programs were included in the four categories listed under Model Taxonomy. Senator Davis then invited Mr. Fendley to share the answer with the Senate at this time.

Mr. Fendley: From the model’s perspective there are two general types of licensures/certificate programs. One is the set of programs that would qualify as academically derived – that is, an individual has to go through the registration process and our in essence paying tuition to obtain that certification. That revenue stream is then included in the tuition component and is provided to the responsible academic units consistent with the tuition sharing formula. The other set is those professional certifications and licensures where an individual is not required to pay tuition to obtain but obtains it through some other way, perhaps it’s a professional P&P certification offered through a workforce development program. That revenue would be assigned to the responsible academic unit but would show up in the ‘other’ category through the inclusion of all non-tuition based fees.
Dr. Rizki raised a question regarding how the model will prevent colleges from duplicating centrally provided services, such as tech support or marketing.

Mr. Fendley stated that there are some checks-&-balances built into the system. There is currently a strategic hiring process where all requests for new positions are centrally evaluated for need and contribution. There is also a plan to conduct a comprehensive service unit review.

Senator Milligan asked Mr. Fendley if any of the points from the MDA Resolution would be difficult to adopt.

Mr. Fendley stated that a number of the concerns are already built into the model and that he doesn't see any significant challenges. He emphasized the need to be careful regarding the amount of flexibility in the model that is limited out of fear that a bad outcome may happen.

Dr. Loranger asked, in relation to #8 on the resolution, and what the timeline would be to complete the service unit review.

Mr. Fendley stated that they plan to review 3-5 units every three to four months starting in January 2015.

Senator Doom raised a concern regarding the emphasis on growth and asked what part of the model best provides the protection that Wright State sticks to its mission of a state-public institution instead of emulating a private-for-profit institution.

Mr. Fendley stated that ultimately it doesn’t matter what the activity is the faculty are at the heart of it, whether it’s starting a new program or evaluating a program. The model is merely designed to allow stakeholders to evaluate the tradeoffs of a given action. Provost Narayanan added that faculty and other university stakeholders would be involved in the committees and groups that review and make budgetary decisions.

President Hopkins concluded the discussion by addressing the following points:

- The whole concept of the public university is changing. Wright State has lost 25% of its state base support within the last seven years, and at this time less than 20% of funding comes from the State of Ohio and it’s expected that the percentage will continue to drop. While Wright State isn’t trying to be a for-profit institution, we do need to think like private universities do. It is also expected that the state will ask Wright State to reduce tuition by 5%, so an emphasis on growth will be needed to offset these budget reductions.
• The most important measure of quality will be the outputs such as the learning outcomes and the quality of graduates.
• The university needs to create a sustainable path in order to fulfill its mission as a public university and continue to produce high quality graduates.
