

A Madrigal

Dream days of fond delight and hours,

As rosy-hued as dawn, are mine.

Love's drowsy wine,

Brewed from the heart of Passion flowers,

Flows warmly o'er my lips

And save thee, all the world is in eclipse.

There were no light if thou wert not;

The sun would be too sad too shine,

And all the line

Of hours from dawn would be a blot;

And Night would haunt the skies,

An unlaid ghost with staring dark-ringed eyes.

Oh, love if thou wert not my love,

And I perchance not thine—what then?

Could gift of men

Or favor of the God above,
Plant ought in this bare heart
Or teach this tongue the singer's soulful art?

Ah, no! 'Tis love, and love alone
That spurs my soul so surely on;
Turns night to dawn,
And thorns to roses fairest blown;
And winter drear to spring—
Oh were it not for love I could not sing!
